50,000 Tie Up Traffic in Cleveland Meat Market Jam

Columbus Crowds Begin Lining Up at 1:30 A. M. To Buy Limited Supplies Before Rationing Starts.

By The Associated Press

An estimated 50,000 persons milled around Cleveland's three major markets, delaying street car traffic from 20 minutes to an hour, as Ohioans went on a last-minute, pre-rationing meat buying rush today.

At Columbus, 18 policemen were sent to the Central market, where customers began to line up as early as 1:30 a. m., eastern war time, and virtually all meat was gone from the stands by 10 a. m.

Long lines stretched before Cleveland's West Side, Central and Woodland Ave.-East 55th Street markets at 3 a. m., although they didn't open for three more hours. Many stalls shut long before 10 a. m., some having supplies for only a few minutes. One, closed early, contained several hundred addressed packages.

Frank C. Jeroski, Cleveland's city commissioner of markets for the last 24 years, declared he never had witnessed such a rush. "People have just gone crazy," he declared. "We won't have any meat left before long. A lot will get more than enough and a lot won't get any."

Frank Tomasek, head of the Central market, asserted "I'm willing to bet my neck that we have more than 150,000 people through here before nightfall. There won't be a scrap of meat left by mid-afternoon."

Pickpockets At Work

Although a squadron of mounted policemen and a quartet of detectives patroled the East Side market area, Mrs. Carmelli Stice, 34, complained pickpockets had taken her purse, containing $125.

The rush to stock up before meat rationing becomes effective Monday started yesterday with long lines at several stores in Cleveland and in other Ohio cities.

Meat Supply Uncertain

Columbus' meat supply this week was estimated at 35 per cent of normal compared with an average of not less than 60 per cent of normal in the past three months.

The Cleveland supply was estimated at 20 per cent of normal, although for a time it dropped to only 10 per cent.

The office of price administration released 165,000 pounds of meat to relieve an acute shortage in the greater Cincinnati area but specified it must be delivered before April 1, start of the second 1943 quota period.

A meat shortage in Dayton recently was alleviated through allocation of 200,000 extra pounds by the OPA. Mayor John Boller of Springfield asserted his city would experience a "meat famine" unless additional supplies were received immediately.

Regional OPA Director Birkett L. Williams said in Cleveland that rationing was no guarantee that meat consumer purchasing problems would end.

He explained many consumers obtained more than normal supplies, draining dealers' stocks this week, and that retailers could not accumulate supplies because no freeze had been ordered in advance of rationing.

Furthermore, he said the first three days of rating were the last three days of a meat slaughtering period and that many slaughterers had exhausted their quotas and would lack supplies until the new slaughter period begins April 1.

Williams urged consumers to help prevent too severe a drain on supplies by not concentrating their purchases at the start of rationing, Monday.

SANTOS, Brazil, March 27 — United States Naval authorities authorized the disclosure today that 26 survivors of a United States merchantmen sunk in the south Atlantic had arrived recently after 42 days at sea.

Marion's Meat Troubles Mount as Rationing Nears

"Going, going, gone" was the theme song of most of Marion's meat dealers today as customers trudged homeward with their last purchase of meat before point rationing starts. While the situation here was pretty much the same as that prevailing over the state, it had an edge on a few places where the supply was reported to be only 20 per cent of normal.

Although some dealers closed up shop early yesterday afternoon and others did not open until noon today, the meat business for the most part was "as usual." With the exception of one dealer who had "plenty of meat on hand" and expressed the opinion that he would have enough to supply the demand until closing time tonight, dealers in general expected to be "out early in the afternoon. Judging from the morning's rush one dealer who was down to "odds and ends" expected to be out by 10:30 this morning. Most stores reported customers waiting when the doors opened this morning.

Customers for the most part were congenial, took what they could get and seemed satisfied. A little time between purchases would have helped immensely, dealers said, and one dealer wailed, "if they'd only give us time to get the meat cut up." A few people "who haven't learned we're in war" were a bit disgruntled and showed it, at not getting their favorite cuts, but they were very much in the minority, one dealer reported. Purchasers for the most part could buy in any quantity they wished, provided the demand was not out of reason.

What's in sight for Monday and next week? Dealers aren't sure. If packing houses and slaughterers come through with orders—yes, if not well, harmless eggs aren't so bad.

Meat Counters Hard Hit at Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 27—Empty meat counters met Bucyrus marketers this morning when they started on their week-end buying jaunts. Especially hard hit were the chain store markets where selections were exhausted early Friday. Independent dealers had somewhat better supplies although selections were small.

All dealers reported heavy purchases Friday as housewives stocked their refrigerators against the rationing, Monday.

MARION CO. WAR BOND AUCTION HITS $27,000

Crowd Keeps Bidding Going at Lively Pace; Event Called Decided Success.

Marion county's war bond livestock auction rang the treasury department's cash register to the tune of approximately $27,000 yesterday and was pronounced a decided success by the county war bond committee and its agricultural division headed by A. J. Loudenslager as chairman.

Money flowed in a steady stream when the long list of gift animals came through the auction ring, and the packed galleries kept the bidding going at a lively pace.

A rabbit, a chicken, calves, hogs and even a dog helped the war effort in yesterday's shows, bringing fabulous "prices." Actually, in this part of the proceedings, the bidders simply bid on war bonds, and the highest bidder received the animal as a gift. Most buyers gave back the animal and it was sold again and again.

Rabbit Sells for $812

For example, the first item in the ring was a black rabbit, which was sold 11 times at bids ranging as high as $100, and brought a total of $812.50.

A befuddled pig that didn't like the crowd and kept trying to find a way out of the auction ring was sold five times in a period of a few minutes and brought a total of $4,300.

One buck almost exhausted Auctioneer Wickersham, who had to sell him a total of 26 times because no buyer wanted to keep him. After this long series of sales in which $1,900 was taken in, the auctioneer gave up and donated the animal to the stockyards.

One pig did double duty. After bringing $325 in war bonds it was given to the Red Cross. It was promptly sold three times and netted the Red Cross campaign fund $30.

Variety of Animals

The bulk of the revenue came from the donated stock, and many a purchaser went home without an animal, having bought the bonds and given back the animal. There were 32 lots of stock plus a chicken, dog and the rabbit, and these donated items brought in more than $20,000. Incidentally, the dog sold originally for $130, then three times for $10 and finally for $5 to a man who kept him.

The final proceeds of the event will soar well beyond the $27,000 mark when the township chairmen turn in their final reports. They have a sizeable list of bond purchase pledges from farmers who pledged themselves to buy bonds rather than consign stock to the auction. For example, in Grand Prairie township where R. T. Thew was praised for doing an unusual job as chairman, an organized group of young men deferred from the draft to stay at their jobs of producing food, sold a total of $8100 in bonds in the township while they sought animals for the auction. Of this $7,000 in cash was turned in yesterday. Also to be counted in are the proceeds of the sale of 90 dozen eggs gathered by pupils of the Grand Prairie school.

DUISBURG HIT IN RAF RAID

Four War Planes Missing from Strong Force Over Targets in Ruhr Valley.

By The Associated Press

LONDON March 27—A strong force of RAF bombers attacked Duisburg and other targets in the Ruhr last night, the air ministry communique said today. Four bombers are missing.

Aircraft of the fighter command were also on patrols during the night, the communique said. Two failed to return.

The Berlin radio earlier acknowledged that high explosive and incendiary bombs had inflicted casualties during raids on small towns in western Germany.

Meantime, it was reported authoritatively, no enemy planes had been over Great Britain for 36 hours.

It was the 57th raid of the war on Duisburg, one of the biggest railway junctions in the Ruhr and the largest inland port in Europe. The last attack was Dec. 20.

Besides its importance as a railway and communication center, Duisburg has power station, blast furnace, coke oven and airdrome targets. One of the largest railway bridges spanning the Rhine also is located there.

The city, which is about 300 miles by air from England, has 140,000 population and is connected to Germany's north sea ports by canals.

ROLL OF ONE WAR JOB CLASS FILLED

Second Is Started in Marion Training Program.

Enthusiastic response to the offer of Harding High school and the U. S. Employment Service to train Marion men and women for war industrial jobs has resulted in filling one class and starting another, L. H. Rickel, vocational coordinator at the school, reported today.

There are about 10 openings in the second class, which will take its training from 11 p. m. to 5 a. m. five nights a week until a 200-hour course in machine shop practice, has been completed.

Enrollments may be made Monday night at the school shop from 7 to 9 or during any day thereafter. Enrollments will be taken indefinitely and applicants assigned to classes as openings develop.

Marion's CIO Industrial Union Council To Hold All-Day Conference Sunday

The Marion Industrial Union Council, citywide CIO organization made up of delegates elected by the various local CIO unions in the city, will hold its first educational day program Sunday at the Eagles building. Complete arrangements were announced today by Ellis Oiler, president of the council.

He said all the approximately 4,000 CIO members in Marion plus visiting groups from Franklin and Richland counties are expected. A number of visiting union officials will take part in the program, along with local officials, Mayor Snare and the Harding High school band and chorus.

The purpose of the program, Mr. Oiler said is to inform all delegates to the council, as well as any local union members who may care to attend, about the activities of the council and the obligations of the locals to the council. It will serve, he said, to acquaint many new members of the organization with operations of the council, and also will bring older members up to date on a number of matters now before the council, especially wartime executive orders and legislation affecting unions.

After a reception in the morning starting at 9 a. m. at which Mayor Snare will speak, the council officers and committees will give a series of reports covering current activities. These reports are expected to occupy most of the morning session.

After a recess from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., the program will be renewed with a series of talks by union officials, many from out of the city. The list includes Tom Downs of Columbus, assistant secretary-treasurer of the state council; Howard Porter of Columbus, district director for the United Steel Workers of America; George DeNatale of Columbus, sub-regional director for the CIO; John Ryan of Columbus, international representative of the transportation workers, Richard Evans of Columbus, representative of the United Automobile Workers of America.

The day's program will include invocation by Rev. Eldred Johnston of Central Christian church, and talks by J. E. Oliphant, head of the United War Chest in Marion, and J. D. Torrance, Red Cross campaign chairman. Ned Parshall, a past president of the council, will be an honor guest. The council is now in its third year of operation.

1,000 Attend "E" Award Presentation At Bucyrus

Rubber Co. Receives Pennant from Commander Turney, Former Marionite.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 27—In ceremonies at the Bucyrus High school building yesterday afternoon The Swan Rubber Co. of Bucyrus received the Army-Navy "E," becoming the second Bucyrus war industry to receive the prized award.

Commander W. L. Turney of the Navy bureau of ships, a former Marion man, presented the pennant to M. G. Nusbaum, president of the company, following a dinner last night in celebration of the award. Commander Turney returned to Marion to spend the weekend with Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Sutherland of 404 Brightwood drive. He will return to Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

Attending the presentation from Marion were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Guthery, Dr. and Mrs. Sutherland, V. J. McMullen, division superintendent of the Erie railroad, C. H. Betz of the Marion Metal Products Co., Harold Grigsby of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dee, Howard Swink and Ted Witter. Mr. Strelitz is vice president of the Swan Rubber Co.

Commander Turney's Talk

As special representative of the Navy department for the presentation, Commander Turney drew a comparison between the hand to hand fighting of the old days to the present fighting which actually has extended to the civilian production lines. He said victorious decisions today depend almost entirely on the home front assistance to the fighting men.

He said the big job in producing materials of war has barely got under way and that a greater job lies ahead for those on the home front.

"We, in the Navy," he said, "consider war workers our true comrades in arms."

In accepting the pennant from Commander Turney, Mr. Nusbaum praised the plant's 275 employes for being wholly responsible for the honor.

Major Spotswood Duke of Ft. Hayes, Columbus, presented the Army-Navy's individual "E" pin to Arthur C. Mollencopf, oldest employe in point of service. Later in the program other Army and Navy officers presented pins to all the employes. Pins will be sent to 97 former employes who are now in the armed service.

About 1,100 persons attended the presentation program at the high school. Company officials today estimated that of the 1100 about 600 were employes and their families.

About 325 persons, including plant officials and employes, guests for the presentation program, and Army and Navy officers, attended a banquet in the Elks ball room. Speakers included "Dusty" Miller of Wilmington, widely known newspaperman and humorist, and Lt. J. Dudley Sears of Camp Atterbury, Ind. Cong. Frederick C. Smith of Marion, who was scheduled to speak at the dinner, was detained in Washington.

About 70 per cent of the company worked at present is detailed to war material. The remaining 30 per cent include garage and yard help, none for essential purposes. A steel yielding here is made to order for use by the Army and Navy.

The company also operates a plant at Carey which manufactures [illegible] doors.

Berlin Radio Hints Major Shakeup To Realign Control in Vichy.

By The Associated Press

The Berlin radio, Nazi-controlled stations in France and dispatches to Spanish newspapers have combined in the past 36 hours to indicate a major shakeup in the Vichy government of Pierre Laval and political alignments in France.

The Berlin radio announced dismissal of five of Laval's cabinet ministers last night in what it called a harmonious move "insuring unconditional support of the Laval government" and which it said was designed to give the French government a greater concentration of power.

But the government shake-up came on the heels of the revelation that French diplomats and officials abroad were dropping away from the Vichy regime in important numbers.

Madrid Staff Quits

Chief defection was at Vichy's largest foreign establishment at Madrid, where 14 diplomatic and consular officers resigned and switched their allegiance to Gen. Henri Giraud, French high commissioner in North and West Africa.

Some of the resignations from Laval's official family appeared recognition of existing facts such as those of Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, Navy minister, and minister of colonies Jules Brevie.

CROBAUGH PLEADS GUILTY AT TIFFIN

Former Loan Co. Executive Admits Embezzlement.

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., March 27 — Clarence W. Crobaugh, 56-year-old executive secretary of the Citizens Building Association Co., pleaded guilty today to carrying on embezzlements which began with his deceased father, and was sentenced to three to 30 years.

Scheduled to be tried Monday in common pleas court, Crobaugh withdrew a plea of innocent and conceded guilty on 12 counts charging embezzlement, falsification of records and perjury. Judge Richard L. Cameron of Marysville, assigned to preside at the trial, pronounced sentences of one to ten years each on three counts and directed they should run consecutively.

The jurist said he was withholding sentence on the nine other counts "until I hear more evidence or until after the trial of other persons." The indictments include specific charges that Crobaugh aided his father, the late Burton W. Crobaugh who died in 1936, in embezzlement of $230,000 and that Clarence Crobaugh subsequently embezzled $170,000.

Other embezzlement indictments name Miss Lulu Sacksteder, 60, assistant secretary of the institution, Burton Crobaugh, 56-year-old hardware dealer, and the latter's brother-in-law Norman W. Peters, 62-year-old attorney. They have pleaded innocent and are free under bond with no trial date set. After the indictments, Burton Crobaugh and Peters filed suit against Prosecutor Robert C. Carpenter for $100,000 damages each, charging defamation of character.

MONTGOMERY'S FORCE DRIVES AHEAD AGAIN

Operations in American Held Sector Quiet; Allied Air Support Strong.

By The Associated Press

Allied headquarters announced today that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th Army delivered a successful attack on the Mareth line in Tunisia yesterday and said operations were "proceeding according to plan in spite of stiff resistance."

The announcement came shortly after an Algiers broadcast—apparently referring to mid-week developments—said the 8th Army had evacuated its bridgehead in the Wadi Zigzaou at the north end of the "Little Maginot" fortifications.

The official war bulletin indicated that Gen. Montgomery's forces, instead of making a fresh withdrawal, were surging deeper into the 40-mile long defense works.

Many prisoners were taken and the operations on the Mareth front continued "with satisfactory results," the communique said.

In the Gafsa-Maknassy theater of American operations there was only local activity and no major attacks, the communique said, but in the north the British First Army facing Tunis and Bizerte began making stabs in what the communique called "reconnaissance in force."

Casualties were inflicted on Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's axis forces in the north and some prisoners were captured, the war bulletin continued.

Air Raids Continue

It said the allied air forces, particularly light bombers and fighter-bombers, continued to range up and down axis positions and transport lines, destroying vehicles and gun nests. Medium bombers attacked the railway southwest of Tunis and an airfield yesterday, while eight axis planes were destroyed last night.

No allied planes were lost during the operations, and the enemy raided the Algeria area," causing a "small number of casualties." Two of the bombers were shot down, it was announced.

The advance in the southern sector was the second in as many days announced by allied headquarters despite heavy rains tending to slow down operations.

(An Algiers radio broadcast recorded by The Associated Press in London said, without mentioning a time element, that the British Eighth Army had evacuated its bridgehead over the Wadi Zigzaou in the Mareth line after inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

(This apparently was a belated reference to a local German counterattack early in the week, since succeeded by further British offensive blows. A dispatch filed from British positions before the Mareth line Tuesday said the Germans, attacking the British on a 100-yard road across the gulch, had closed the breach after 24 hours of fierce fighting.

Berlin Reports Attack

(The German communique, as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press in London, said the allies had delivered fresh attacks on a heavy scale in central and southern Tunisia, but declared these thrusts were repulsed after severe fighting.

(The Italian communique, recorded by The Associated Press in London, said six allied planes were shot down in air battles yesterday and that a large formation of four-motored planes was intercepted in an attempted attack on Cagliari, Sardinia, and forced to reverse its course. Three ships were declared to have been hit in a German torpedo-plane attack in an allied convoy off Algeria.

Midday reports received at headquarters said that American troops in central Tunisia had launched a surprise drive toward Fondouk, 15 miles southwest of the big enemy air base at Kairouan. This sector is to the northeast of Faid pass and over 100 miles to the north of the American sector at Maknassy and El Guetar, where Lieut. Gen.

K. OF C. TO LAUNCH WAR BOND CAMPAIGN MONDAY

Marion Council Quota $10,800 in Founder's Month Event.

Marion Council No. 671 of the Knights of Columbus will join with more than 2,500 other councils of the K. of C. in inaugurating the order's $25,000,000 War Bond drive, beginning Monday and extending through April 28, as the feature of the Founder's Month program in commemoration of the order's sixty-first anniversary.

The campaign has been endorsed by the U. S. treasury department. The Ohio quota has been set at $1,330,000 and an aggressive state campaign is now under way with George F. Quinn of Cleveland as state chairman, whose appointment was recently announced by State Deputy James P. Lavey of Milan. The entire war program of the K. of C. in Ohio is under supervision of William M. Corry of Alliance, state secretary, who has been appointed co-ordinator of war activities for the order's program in Ohio, which to date includes divisions on (1) honor roll, (2) civilian defense, (3) aid to war chaplains, and (4) war bonds.

Each local council has its quota based on a per capita of $60 in purchases or sales for each local member. Thus, Marion's quota will be approximately $10,800. Grand Knight William H. Simmons of the local council will name the committee for the local campaign.

OBITUARY
★It was on the 26th day of July 1864 that Elizabeth Luella came into the home of James Harvey and Ann Harrison Coen to bring cheer and good-will into the world. The place of birth was the Coen home farm one and one-half miles east of Caledonia in Morrow County. When about twelve years old she united with the Methodist Church at North Caanan of which her mother was a devoted member and throughout her life her main trust and loyalty was in the Christ she so earnestly followed. January 22, 1886, in her home she was united in marriage to William A. Dickson of Martel, Ohio, and in this vicinity with her loyal and devoted husband walked through life, sharing joys and sorrows for more than half a century. Cheerfulness, kindness, self-sacrifice, and always a lady were the strong traits of her character. She had many friends because she loved friends and they loved her. Just as the dawn was breaking in the eastern skies Saturday, March 13, 1943, the end of her earthly life in mortal body came. Her smile, generosity and cheery words will be greatly missed by the faithful husband; three children, Mrs. Roma E. Campbell, Mrs. Mabel B. Newlon and J. Harvey Dickson; two grandchildren, Wilbur B. Campbell and J. Harvey Dickson, Jr.; five great-grandchildren. The granddaughter she so greatly loved, Florence Elizabeth (Campbell) Kibbee, met a tragic death five years ago. If kind words and deeds never die and if "To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die" then "There is no death, the leaves may fall and flowers may fade and pass away; They only wait through wintry hours, the coming of the May."

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank everyone who with kind acts and cheery words helped make life happier for our dear wife and mother, Elizabeth (Coen) Dickson. To those who assisted in any way with kind deeds, messages of sympathy and comforting words during her late illness and burial, we are deeply grateful. Not one is forgotten.

William A. Dickson,
J. Harvey Dickson and Family,
Roma E. Campbell and Family,
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Newlon.

FOOD PLAIN, THINK OF OHIO YOUNGSTERS

They Have Lived Two Years Without Tasting Any.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 27—Concerned about rationing and enough to eat?

Then consider two youngsters in University hospital here who haven't tasted food in more than two years.

Five-year-old Eugene Blevins, son of Mrs. Alice Blevins of South Webster, and Betty Dell Clarkson, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarkson of Canton, both "eat" through tubes inserted into their stomachs through abdominal walls. Both are thriving and may leave the hospital soon.

The physician directing their care, a faculty member of Ohio State university's medical college who requested anonymity, said both children accidentally swallowed lye and that resulting scar tissue prevents normal passage of food into their stomachs.

Betty entered the hospital in April, 1941, about six months after she swallowed the poison and Eugene in October, 1940, a month after his accident.

Both children receive a special diet of high vitamin content and are fed every four hours around the clock.

Their physician said Eugene would go to nearby Nightingale cottage for the outdoor facilities it provides "in a week or so" and that Betty Dell probable would go home to her parents in "three or four weeks."

The physician said both children lately have been able to drink small qualities of water and predicted they eventually would be able to eat normally.

J. M. DAVIDSON TO GET HIGH MASONIC HONOR

Marion Lodge Arranges for Emblem Presentation.

The entered apprentice degree was conferred on a class of candidates at a meeting Friday night of Marion Lodge No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons, in the Masonic Temple.

Plans were made to go to Springfield Sunday, April 4, when the grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ohio will issue a dispensation to Marion Lodge to open a lodge meeting at the Masonic home at Springfield, to present the gold lapel emblem to James M. Davidson in recognition of his 75th Masonic anniversary. This is the first time in the history of the Grand Lodge of Ohio that an emblem of this kind has ever been presented. Mr. Davidson is the first Mason in Ohio to have attained the 75th anniversary. The presentation will be made by the Grand Master.

Mr. Davidson is a member of the Marion lodge but resides at the Masonic home in Springfield.

Invitations are being extended to the officers of all the grand lodges in the state.

Old Agen Pensioners Hear Major Heard

A meeting of the Old Age Pensioners of Marion county was held Friday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. Major Joseph Heard of the Salvation Army was guest speaker. Mrs. Heard contributed a song, "Take It to the Lord in Prayer." The meeting opened with Arthur Hershner presiding and the audience singing "America" and giving the salute to the flag. Major Heard spoke the invocation and following reports of the officers William F. Porter talked on recipients and also told of remembering soldiers who received pensions after the War of 1812. The choir sang "Ring the Bells of Heaven," and a reading, "Judgment," was given by Mrs. Flora Gray. A duet, "When They Ring the Golden Bells For You and Me," was sung by Mrs. Clara Kinsler and W. E. Sergent, with Mrs. Effie Noe at the piano.

A song by the choir, "Love Lifted Me," and a report on his trip to Columbus where he met with state legislators regarding the pensioners by Mr. Hershner closed the program. Mr. Hershner said there are 3,602 pensioners in the state receiving $40 a month and the average pension is $26.08. The group sang the doxology and Major Heard pronounced the benediction. Approximately 100 attended and three new members were enrolled.

She first took up the trade through necessity when it became impossible to find men to top and trim the acacia trees at her own home.

Here Are Tips on What Vegetables To Plant First in Your Victory Garden

...l vegetables grow best if ... planted as soon as it is ... get the garden soil pre- ... receive the seeds. It is pos- ... grow a third crop on the ...me if one or more of ... season group is planted ... beans are harvested.

Hot Weather Group

...e group of vegetables ...stand hot weather but ...ld be planted early to ... the time when they will ... enough to eat. This group ... beets, chard, carrots, ...leeks, garlic, chives, ...salsify, kale, collards, ... and the common herbs ... seasoning such as dill, ...oriander, summer savory, ... and sweet basil. If ... of both beets and car- ...ts are made at intervals from ... to July, a supply of tender ...ots will be available through- ... the season.

Onions and garlic should be grown from sets in victory gardens. Chives are propagated by dividing the clumps of small plants. Parsnips and salsify require an entire growing season to reach edible size. Kale, collards, parsley, chard, and most of the mints can be trimmed as the greens are needed if they are planted early. Most leafy vegetables become tough if allowed to become too mature.

Cabbage, cauliflower, celery, sprouting broccoli, Brussels sprouts, and head lettuce are cool season crops which usually are grown from transplanted seedlings. The seedlings can be gradually hardened by exposing them to progressively cooler temperatures before they are set in the garden. The hardened seedlings then can be transplanted into the garden and will withstand temperatures as low as 20 degrees Fahrenheit.

Easiest To Grow

Professor H. D. Brown, horticulture department, Ohio State University, advises inexperienced gardeners that early cabbage and sprouting broccoli are the easiest of this group of six vegetables to grow. Head lettuce, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, and celery cause more trouble. Insects hold banquets on Brussels sprouts and cauliflower, and celery must be sprayed every few days to control diseases. Extra work is required to get head lettuce to form solid heads.

All transplants should be handled so their roots are not injured nor permitted to become dry. They should be set in moist soil and watered regularly until they become well established. Seeds for early season vegetable normal crops can be planted safely in central Ohio from March 20 to April 1. And the cool weather transplants can be set in the open about 10 days later. All planting dates depend upon the current year's weather, and 1943 up to March 21, has been unusually backward.

Chickory to be used either for salads or for a coffee substitute should be planted the last half of May. If it is planted earlier, the plants will produce seed and the food value in the roots will be partly wasted.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR HOME REPAIRS

Owners Urged To Keep Residences in Sound Condition.

Funds are available through the FHA-insured loans to finance all repairs necessary to maintain homes in sound livable condition, Federal Housing administration officials point out. They stressed the need for keeping property in sound condition, "as only such housing as is necessary to provide accommodations for war industry workers will be built for the duration."

There are thousands of older home properties scattered throughout the country that are completely unlivable and beyond repair because what at first were minor jobs of repair were permitted to go unattended, the FHA statement pointed out.

"For example, cellar walls should be kept in good repair. When neglected it is a simple thing for water and dampness to seep in and undermine the foundation of the house itself. Leaky roofs and loose singles should be looked after at the first sign of wear. When left to further deterioration, the job of repair will be much greater, and the cost of such repairs will increase accordingly.

"Faulty plumbing should be attended to without delay. This is essential for reasons of health and sanitation as well as maintenance. Heating equipment should be checked at regular intervals in order to guard against the possibility of fire, as well as to insure proper and economical operation. A properly operating heating unit will save considerably on the fuel bill, so if there is any doubt as to its working order have it checked.

"These are just a few of the items that every home owner should check at regular intervals to be sure that he is maintaining his home in sound livable condition.

"There is also the important question of being able to obtain the materials necessary for repairs. When neglected too long, the materials required for such repairs increase accordingly, and in many instances, critical materials are now difficult, if not impossible to obtain. It is important, therefore, that equipment and fixtures be properly cared for, and all essential repairs made without delay.

"To facilitate work of this type, the War Production Board has ruled it unnecessary for home owners to apply for specific authorization when making essential repairs. When such repairs call for the use of materials on the critical list, priorities must be obtained.

SPRING CLEANUP TIME is just around the corner, in fact many of the women folk are already into it and are finding much to be done. In addition to cleaning, there is a lot of improvement and repair work that can be done easily by either the Missus or Mister, much of it with the paint brush. Modern paints are so prepared that they come already mixed or if there's any mixing to be done it is clearly and simply explained so that even the rawest amateur can't make a mistake.

NEW SHOWER DEVICE

A new shower and bath combination has a self-cleaning shower head with a spout which automatically makes the water flow into the tub after the shower has been completed. Here is how it works: The bather opens the supply valves. When the proper water temperature is obtained, the water can be switched to the shower by lifting a button on top of the spout over the tub. The pressure of the water holds the transfer device in the nozzle in this position until the supply valves are closed, when the transfer device drops automatically by gravity to its former position, ready to direct water through the nozzle into the tub.

SPACE SAVERS

Modern space-saving radiators not only are more compact when installed but also save valuable shipping space. At this time when transportation facilities are at a premium, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau calls attention to the fact that there is 6,600 feet of radiating surface in a carload of slender tube radiation as compared with only 3,500 feet in a carload of large tube radiation. Also significant is the fact that it takes less cast iron to make the small tube radiators while heating efficiency is greater. Small tube radiators are more attractive in design.

NEW MATERIALS

Three new developments in the rapidly changing priority picture are bathroom medicine cabinets made of kiln-dried hardwood instead of steel, bath room accessories made of plastics instead of chromium-plated brass, and cabinets for convectors made of fibreboard instead of steel.

Good Paint Brushes Have Flagged Tips

In the construction of a good paint brush, there are 11 different lengths of bristles. Hog bristles, from which the best paint brushes are made, have two to 12 "flags" at the tips, which are exceedingly useful and are not duplicated in any other type of bristle.

These flags hold the paint much better than ordinary bristle and enable the painter to make a more even spread of the paint film. As the brush wears shorter, the bristles continue to subdivide at the ends, so even though the brush is worn to a fraction of its original length, the bristle remain flagged at the end just as they were when they were new.

Confidence in Our Leadership

IN THE light of Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker's announcement that the experimental stage of United States bombing operations based on England has ended, there should be an immediate stop to the speculation that has surrounded the subject. Gen. Eaker, commander of the eighth U. S. air force, says daylight precision bombing has been successful. He explains that our bombers will continue to be used in this way, as well as for night bombing. Experience has known how some things can be done better; improvements will be made. But experience also was shown that American aviation tactics in the battle of Europe are sound. Our planes and crews are more than holding their own.

Gen. Eaker, it must be assumed, knows more about his job than critics thousands of miles away who have been undermining confidence in American equipment and leadership by irresponsible statements about daylight raiding and other subjects with which they are only superficially acquainted. In war the only thing that counts is the result, and if United States planes are helping to break the back of the German military monster, without extraordinary loss of equipment and crews, the discussion automatically is closed. It is time, perhaps, to feel more confidence in our leadership and less confidence in the sniping of backseat drivers who think they could do better.

In the Land Army

FIVE Marion county youths are receiving the state farmer degree in the Future Farmers of America convention at Columbus this week. This is recognition for achievement and ability which has always been noteworthy but which is especially so this year with agriculture occupying a role of paramount importance at a crucial stage of the war effort.

These boys are qualified to rank high in the new "land army" being organized on the country's great food production front. They will be stationed in a major sector of that front, for they represent a county situated in one of the country's richest agricultural regions. So they are in position to perform exceptionally valuable service in helping provide the super-abundant products of the land so urgently needed in the waging of war at this critical time.

This they can be counted upon to do and the same may be said of all rural residents, young and old, in Marion county and its neighboring counties, all comprising an area noted for good soil and good farmers.

If we were doing any betting we'd pick a sure thing and bet that when the year's crop totals are assembled this locality will stand well toward the top of the list.

No Compromise with Common Sense

DEMOCRATIC face savers in congress are hoping for a so-called "compromise" on income tax reform. This is a piece of silliness that should be exposed the instant it is injected in the debate.

There can be no compromise with common sense. If 40,000,000 citizens of this country are going to pay income taxes—and how they are going to pay them!—their taxes must be collected at the source.

Neither they nor anyone else except a handful of mule-minded politicians and kept experts are interested in any scheme to put income tax payments on a current basis according to a formula worked out in the Einstein manner by a bevy of obtuse-minded lawyers hoping to make a fortune out of explaining to yokels what the whole thing means at so much a head.

There is a right way to collect income taxes, and there is a wrong way. The taxpayers are tired of having it done the wrong way. They want it done the right way. They think their rights in the matter are more important than the rights of a lot of peevish gentlemen who draw pay for serving, not obstructing, the citizenship of the United States. They don't want any compromise on tax reform.

Germany's Great Wall

GERMANS are being comforted at home by glowing reports of the impregnable fortifications that will halt attempts to invade Europe. This confronts them with a ticklish psychological dilemma, but if the Allies are lucky they won't realize it.

Nothing would be easier than to repeat the French mistake of believing implicitly in security behind a Maginot line. It is one of the classic mistakes of national defense. The Chinese made it behind their Great Wall. Americans made it behind their doctrine of isolation. Now the Germans are being invited to make it. The same regime that threatened to conquer the world by proving the French Maginot line was worthless is telling them that Europe can't be invaded.

They are being told that Germany has been fortified against retribution for its crimes all the way from Norway to Greece. Yet, night and day, planes carry thousands of tons of explosives across the fortifications into the heart of their country. The German army is spread thin along thousands of miles of coast line. Hate seethes in the conquered countries. Germany's enemies already are busy behind its fortifications.

Today and Tomorrow

Two Points in Churchill Speech Seen as Causes of Misunderstanding.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE POINT [illegible] caused the [illegible] Prime Minister Churchill to [illegible] Pearl Harbor, followed by the THREE great powers, Great Britain, the United States and Russia, would immediately begin [illegible] after the future world organization. The question is whether he would have included China.

For unless we find that question definitely upon which we are agreed, the problem of world peace realistically, candidly and in earnest. It is plain that Mr. Churchill was led to this view of the fact that Chinese-British relations have not been altogether happy. It is easy to see why Mr. Churchill left the Chinese feeling unhappy. It may be, then, that Americans have something to contribute which may clarify the matter.

The reason for inviting the three, rather than the four, great powers to head the arrangements for world peace is that they alone have vital interests both in the Pacific and in the Atlantic, both in the east and in the west. They are in fact the three WORLD powers because in any major disturbance of the peace anywhere they are all three involved directly. This is not true of China, and it is no slight to the dignity of China to recognize in the practical work which lies ahead that she has no direct interest and no direct responsibility in the policing of Europe, Africa and the Atlantic ocean. The other American republics do not feel that they are slighted because they are not members of the Pacific council.

British-Chinese Relations

It must be admitted that Mr. Churchill's proposal would have been less open to misunderstanding if the relations between London and Chungking were better. Americans in a position to say without its being resented that both our Allies are at fault.

British official opinion about China, it must, I think, be said, has been too greatly influenced by the least attractive side of that older British imperialism which is dead or dying in the United Kingdom and in the great dominions. The Chinese resent it. On the other hand, Chinese resentment has often been carried to a point, for example in India and for example in connection with Americans, where it agitates against the harmony of the United Nations.

As the friends of both powers, we have a right to ask the British officialdom to realize that we regard China as our indispensable ally because we look upon the freed map of China as the only possible guaranty that the Asiatic war will not degenerate now, or explode later, into an endless conflict between the Western and Eastern peoples. That is why we wish the British and the Russians to walk with us hand in hand with the Chinese.

We have a right to say to the Chinese that the liberation of Chinese soil depends in a decisive measure upon the force which Great Britain can assemble in India. Therefore, it is not in China's interest that the generalissimo or that Madame Chiang Kai-shek should intervene in India as the partisans of those Hindu leaders who, like Ghandi, are avowedly opposed to waging war against Japan.

"Council of Europe."

Americans may have a small bone of their own to pick with Mr. Churchill's speech. It has to do with his use of the name "Council of Europe." It would be much better if he called it something else—perhaps the Council of the West. For just what is "Europe?" Are we in Europe?" The words Council of Europe will suggest to many the very idea which we ought to wish to avoid—namely, that the continent of Europe from Spain and the English Channel to the Russian frontier is a distinct and separate thing. If it is, it will be a German Europe, and indeed pan-German Europe, for Europe in this sense would inevitably be dominated by Germany.

But, in fact, peace in the Western world depends upon three non-European powers — Britain, Russia and America.

The larger issues of peace and war are not "European," but Western, and since things often tend to become what they are called we must not by inadvertence get off to a false start.

Post-War Planning

While Theorists Argue State Department Prepares Statistics for Peace Delegates.

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

WHILE post-war planning grows apace, one full-grown government plannery is fabricating a word peace program without attracting any attention at all.

It consists of the divisions of political and economic studies in the state department. Its site is in a department annex, and its chief is a Russian-born economist, Dr. Leo Pasvolsky, as little known to the world as the policies he is forming for it.

His plans are taking shape in a secrecy as profound as the strategy of the generals and the admirals. They are confided only to those members of congress who ask about about them, to President Roosevelt and to the highest state department officials. None of the planners will talk to an outsider.

Yet the all-important basis for the United States government's negotiations with statesmen of the United Nations is being laid there in carefully studied and documented files. The planning machinery was set up three months ago. Forearmed with reports and recommendations of hand-picked collaborators Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles is ready now for joint discussion of post-war policies.

"Failing to begin such organized study and discussion now," Mr. Welles said in a recent speech, "there is danger that divergent views and policies may become crystalized, to the detriment of the common war effort, and to the detriment of efforts to bring about a peace that will be more than a brief and uneasy interlude before another even more horrible and more destructive war."

In other words, unless the nations, big and small, now united in the fight against Hitlerism, agree on the main points of the post-war settlement, from boundaries to air bases, national rivalries may predominate after the victory and spoil the peace.

THE United States is preparing to go into all kinds of questions, geographic, ethnic, economic or social, with a fistful of arguments for its side. Preparing the data, and the arguments are a staff of more than 60 drafting officers of the state department. Few of them are diplomats. Most are former college instructors, recognized authorities in some field of history, geography, political, economic or social science.

No hard and fast program, like the "14 points" of Woodrow Wilson, is the aim. The planners recognize that Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, Premier Stalin of Soviet Russia, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China and the smaller governments in exile will have their own ideas.

For instance, the higher-ups in Washington may consider that Germany's industrial and political power should be decentralized under Allied control for a considerable period after the war. But should Germany be partitioned into a lot of small states, as Lord Robert Van Sittart has proposed to Great Britain?

> High hopes for a more perfect post-war world can be realized only through intelligent use of the facts and circumstances that affect human behavior. This requirement, ignored when the treaty makers at Versailles, attempted to divide Europe into sections on a basis of politics and security, instead of customs, language and desires, will be satisfied at the next peace conference if the United States succeeds with the realistic post-war planning described in this article by a special writer for The Associated Press.

Mr. Welles, or perhaps someone else, orders the planners to study the problem from all angles, weigh the advantages, the disadvantages, the difficulties, the probable repercussions, in the light of historic precedents and experience. On the basis of this study, the American statesmen may form a tentative decision, and be ready, if necessary, to answer a counter-proposal with the statement, "We think it would be inadvisable for this reason."

Already proposals have been made to disarm potential aggressors, set up an international police force and re-educate the Germans, the Italians and the Japanese.

How have such experiments operated in the past, how are they most likely to succeed in the prospective aftermath of World war II? Those are some of the questions on which the experts in the state department are working.

THEIR chief, 49-year-old special assistant to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, may have a particular interest in his work because his native city, Pavlograd, is in the Kharkov sector.

Pasvolsky is a compact ball of energy, round of body and face, with an intellect respected by many of this nation's leading economists.

He was brought from Russia by his parents in 1905, at the age of 12, and was naturalized six years later. At the age of 16 he was editor of a Russian language newspaper in New York, taking over the job at the death of his father.

Graduated from the City college in New York in 1916, he took graduate work at Columbia and the University of Geneva, became a writer on international and financial relations and eventually a research economist for the Brookings Institution in Washington, where he received his doctor's degree in 1936.

Peace conferences attracted him from his youth. He managed to attend the Paris conference of 1919 and the arms limitation conference at Washington in 1921 as a journalist. He was an observer for Brookings at the world economic conferences in Geneva in 1927 and 1930 and in London in 1933. Shortly after that he went to the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce as an economist and transferred to the state department, in the same capacity, in 1935.

Associates say Pasvolsky enjoys the complete confidence of Secretary Hull. In charge of the division of political studies, he has appointed Dr. Harley A. Notter, a former instructor in history and educator, born at Sebewaing, Mich., 40 years ago.

Notter's assistants are Dr. Durward V. Sandifer, a 42-year-old native of Tamalco, Ill., who taught at Rutgers, and Dr. Samuel Shepard Jones, 33, of Arcadia, Fla., who taught at Harvard. Both Sandifer and Jones attended the Geneva School of International Relations, as well as other famous universities. Jones was director of the World Peace foundation at Boston before he came to Washington.

Head of the division of economic studies in Leroy Dean Stinebower, 38, of Eureka, Mich., a onetime professor, who has been a state department adviser on economics since the Buenos Aires conference for maintenance of peace in 1936. His assistant is Henry Julian Wadleigh, 39, of Greenfield, Mass., who studied at Oxford, London School of Economics, University of Kiel (Germany) and University of Chicago. Never a professor, Wadleigh has been an economist with the federal farm board, department of agriculture and agricultural adjustment administration.

These are the men training a score of their staff to be chairmen of the various technical committees for the United States at the eventual peace conference.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, March 27, 1933.

Japan formally ended its 13 years of membership in the League of Nations, the decision being forwarded to Geneva with the approval of Emperor Hirohito. Japan said its action resulted from the league's disagreement in the empire's policy in support of Manchukuo.

The Ohio senate approved, 25 to 6, a bill to legalize beer in the state and sent the measure to the state house of representatives.

President Roosevelt notified congress he had issued an executive order establishing all federal agricultural credit agencies under one unit to be known as the farm credit administration, and at the same time abolished stabilization operations of the farm board.

In answer to requests of Jewish leaders in this country, Secretary of State Hull issued a statement saying this nation would not protest the mistreatment of Jews in Germany because official reports indicated that policy had been stopped, but promised the United States would "continue to watch the situation closely."

Mrs. Ella R. Grubaugh, 63, died at her home on Grant street.

A mass meeting of Harding High school juniors and seniors resulted in a unanimous vote to wear semi-formal frocks at the annual prom and to do away with corsages and gloves. It was in line with a general plan to keep prom expenses at a minimum.

Mrs. Addie McNay was in charge of arrangements when the Altrurian club closed its season with a luncheon at Hotel Marion.

The Ben Hur club met at the home of Mrs. Charles Melvin of Pearl street.

Richard D. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert D. Myers of Thew avenue, returned to Ohio State university to resume his studies after spending 10 days at his home.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, March 27, 1923.

Messages from virtually all parts of the world poured into Paris expressing sorrow over the death of Sarah Bernhardt, noted actress, the preceding night.

British newspapers saw evidence of a move to settle differences over reparations and to end military occupation of the Ruhr following a visit to Rome of Hugo Stinnes, German industrial leader, for conferences with Judge Albert H. Gary, American steel magnate, Premier Mussolini and members of the International Chamber of Commerce.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bolander of Bennett street.

It was announced that Josiah Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount Co., which had gone into the hands of a receiver, was to be in Marion the following Friday to address a meeting of stockholders living in Marion county and adjoining territory.

Mrs. J. G. McNamara was hostess to the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club at Beecher's cafeteria.

In an address at a dinner under auspices of the Marion County Republican club, United States Senator Simeon D. Fess said accomplishments of the Harding administration during the time it had been in power surpassed those of any previous administration.

That No-Strike Policy

John L. Lewis Never Dissented.

JOHN L. LEWIS has moved the deadline for his threatened coal strike back 30 days from April 1, but the strike threat continues to be his strongest weapon in negotiations with mine owners and in the war labor board's handling of the United Mine Workers' demands.

On Dec. 15, 1941, nine days after Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt named a 24-member board to develop labor policy. Twelve members represented labor. When the board was constituted, the Smith anti-strike bill had been passed by the house of representatives and sent to the senate. Other anti-strike bills were pending in the senate.

The board convened on Dec. 17. William H. Davis, chairman of the national defense mediation board, had been named by the President as moderator. Sen. Thomas of Utah, chairman of the senate committee on education and labor, was vice moderator.

On Dec. 23, Mr. Roosevelt announced that he accepted the board's decision, as follows:

1. No strikes or lockouts for the duration of the war.

2. All disputes to be settled by peaceful means.

3. All disputes to be handled by a "proper" war labor board, to be named by the chief executive.

No mention was made of a fourth point, named by the board's industrial representatives as a necessary corollary to the other three: That the issue of a closed shop be suspended for the duration. The industry spokesmen believed Mr. Roosevelt had pulled a "fast one" and issued a statement denouncing the closed shop and recommending that it be rejected as an issue for the duration of the war. Presumably, this was the only objection to the board's declaration of policy. Mr. Lewis, for instance, did not denounce it or register reservations.

Strikes in 1942 were far below the record for 1941, though about the same as they were in 1940. According to preliminary estimates of the department of labor, they caused 6,620,000 idle mandays of which about one third directly affected war work. In 1941, idle man-days caused by strikes reached the staggering total of 23,886,000.

Stamp Pasting

Most storekeepers admit that rationing is the only correct method to deal with food shortages, but one of the more statistically minded retailers has just estimated what it costs stores to handle the job on canned goods alone.

There are 144 stamps a year to be handled for each of 125 million people holding ration books. That multiplies to 18 billion stamps a year, all of which have to be pasted on cards before they can be turned in for new supplies of canned goods. The government prints the cards, each of which holds 50 stamps. Divide 18 billion by 50 and you get a total of 360 million cards to be pasted up.

Tests have shown that one clerk can paste up 20 cards an hour. Divide 360 million cards by 20 and you get 18 million hours of labor required, just to paste stamps in books. If clerks are paid 50 cents an hour, that means $9,000,000 labor cost for stamp pasting.

Good Generals

We're Lucky When One Emerges from Our Hit-and-Miss Scheme of Promotion of Army Talent.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE ALWAYS manage to discover good generals in our wars. Sometimes it takes a little experimenting, but the right ones eventually come to light.

As I once said before, the fact that a man is a general does not argue military genius. He may merely have lived long enough to move automatically up in the line of army promotion.

Among our generals, in about the same proportion as numbers as among civilians, we have nincompoops and nincompoops. We have supplement generals with fat stomachs who come up out of the huffle-scuffle of war [illegible] years of obscurity to great responsibilities in the military establishment and toward the civilian population and who huff and puff at the latter in a most alarming fashion.

We have night club generals who are terrific men-about-townables, and we have generals who in civil life would not be entrusted with the business details of a peanut stand but are now charged with the administration of some of the weightier affairs of the war. But, fortunately, we also have many generals who are brilliant men under any and all circumstances.

ON BALANCE, I think our competent generals must have always outnumbered the incompetents, else we would not hold our present record of never having lost a war, though of course you always hear more of the successful in any field than of the failures. So far in this war we have had a couple of rather terrible busts, but against these we have uncovered a number of mighty likely prospects. It is a little early as yet to rate them definitely.

Our great generals always seem to run in two vastly different types, the quiet guy and the swashbuckler, or exhibitionist. No one cares which kind they are if they are successful. The nation will overlook, or regard as "color," any idiosyncrasies in a general if he wins battles. Grant and Sherman were quiet guys and Sheridan a swashbuckler, but the Union adored all three because they were winners.

Perhaps the greatest military mind in American history, though it was on the losing side, was that of Stonewall Jackson. He was the quiet kind, so was Lee. Yet Jeb Stuart, the idol of the Confederacy, was a swashbuckler. Douglas MacArthur, so far our top general in the current war, and George Patton, the new headliner in North Africa, are of this type, too.

MACARTHUR, with his long cigaret holder, the touch of the fop in his apparel, his elegance, and his studied declamatory utterances, is the American public's greatest favorite among the military men of today because it regards him as a splendid leader of fighting men and our guarantee of victory in the Pacific. Another general with the same mannerism and less ability would have been derided as just a showoff.

Patton, with his two pistols, his gilt helmet and his cussing and yelling, would be a ludicrous figure, indeed, to the public but for the fact that, like Dizzy Dean at the height of his dizziness, he seems able to turn in victories. The nation does not care if Patton stands on his head when he dines, if he can hurl winning games. Patton, a rich man out of Pasadena, was always a great one for display even when he was a young guy on Pershing's staff in Mexico. Pershing expressed himself not so much in noise as in autocratic severity of demeanor.

I like this Gen. Eisenhower, too. He is said to be on the quiet side, yet he is not afraid to remove a pitcher when he is going bad. The nation spends a lot of money in developing a general, taking him in his youth and going along with him into his old age. If he is of our regular military establishment, as most generals are, it asks only one thing of him in return—success.

So They Say

There is no use in kidding ourselves into believing that the people as a whole are trying hard to win this war. They are not. If we had real wartime tax policy and a willingness for sacrifice by the public, the problem of keeping down the cost of living would be much easier. —Edward C. Welsh, OPA executive.

We glory in what we have done thus far, but what we have done thus far isn't a patch on what we could do if we were fighting with the idea that it is a death struggle against an enemy who might defeat us. Right there is one of the real bottlenecks. We don't have the slightest idea that we could lose the war.—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

In time of war we can never say that anything cannot be done.—Manpower Director Paul V. McNutt.

Octavus Roy Cohen, the short and long story writer, has just returned from Washington somewhat more perplexed than any of the characters he has created. But during his sojourn in Washington he got quite a [illegible] up on a great number of people he talked to there. Public Expresses Views About Cong. Clare Luce

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 27 — Probably no other woman, not excepting Mrs. Roosevelt, is so much the subject of discussion today as Clare Boothe Luce, Congresswoman from Connecticut.

Because the case of Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Luce are either for or against, there is little middle ground. From the start she is as enthusiastically lauded as she is vehemently criticized. In every State in the Union the field reporters of the Institute polled the views of all people for Institute polls were instructed, this last week, to ask these questions:

MRS. CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

Have you heard or read about Mrs. Luce?

Can you tell me what her job is now?

What is your opinion of her?

The results of the first two questions are merely a matter of statistics. Half of the persons interviewed throughout the nation said they had heard about or read about Mrs. Luce, and eight out of every ten of those who knew about Mrs. Luce correctly identified her as a member of congress. That leaves 50%, or half, of the people who have never heard about her.

But this figure needs to be contrasted with the number of people who know the name of their own congressmen from their own district. The typical congressman is known by only 49 per cent of the people in his own particular district which indicates that Clare Boothe Luce, in the course of a very few months, is as well known throughout the country as is the typical congressman in his own district.

When the figures are analyzed they reveal that Mrs. Luce is better known among women than men, better known among the upper and middle income groups than among the lower income groups, and better known among Republicans than Democrats.

Women Favorable

Women have a more favorable opinion of Mrs. Luce than do men. In fact, a slightly higher proportion of men express an unfavorable opinion than express a favorable opinion. The reverse is true of women. Women have these complimentary things to say about her: "She is smart and well-informed. . . . I am all for her . . . . She is extremely clever. . . . Up and coming . . . She's young and accomplishes what she sets out to do . . . . She's smart and probably sincere. . . . I envy her."

Against this type of comment can be set some by women which are less flattering: "She's given to wise-cracking without anything behind it. . . . I wish she didn't wear a babushka. . . . She ought to be in the kitchen, where women belong. . . . A flippant and frivolous-minded person. . . . Pretty, but superficial—too ambitious. . . . She wants to be a thorn in Roosevelt's side, but hasn't succeeded."

The adverse comments of men are of a slightly different character: "She's insolent and not constructive in a time of great crisis. . . . She's an imperialist under a new name. . . . Like all women, she likes to hear herself talk. . . . She's flighty and fighty. . . . She'd be better to stick to her books."

On the other hand, many men interviewed were flattering in their remarks: "She's a very handsome woman. . . . She's made of good stuff. . . . She's energetic and intelligent. . . . Knows how to talk in a graphic way. . . . She's very smart and we'll hear plenty from her. . . . A bright woman who speaks her own mind. . . . She's got more sense than the Vice-President. . . . She's extremely smart for such a young, good-looking woman."

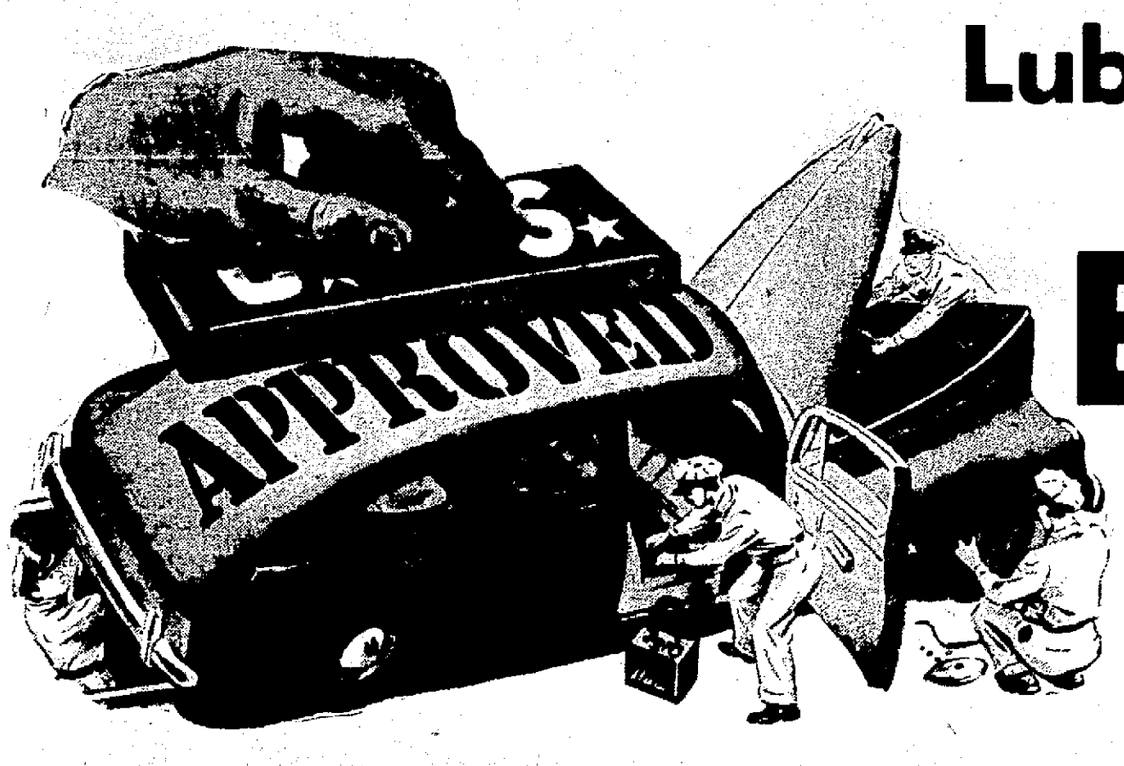
ODT Car Maintenance Program Urges Proper Lubrication Every 1,000 Miles Or At Least EVERY 60 DAYS



The Preventive Maintenance program recommended for the U. S. TRUCK AND CAR CONSERVATION CORPS is based on inspection and service every 1,000 miles, with more comprehensive check-ups at 5,000 and 15,000-mile intervals. It is significant that the first step in each of these service schedules is complete lubrication in accordance with manufacturers' wartime recommendations. The creators of the plan recognize in such protection the greatest single means of extending the life and reducing the upkeep of vitally needed car and truck equipment.

Correct lubrication—in addition to the specialized lubricants developed—calls for carefully cultivated habits of procedure, based on easily interpreted, 100% accurate lubrication charts. Such charts make a basic contribution to auto and truck conservation, and thus help to prevent a breakdown of transportation.

Follow These Rules for Proper Care of Your Car!

1. Preventive Maintenance Inspection. To begin an intelligent Preventive Maintenance program, you must first see that your car or truck is put in reasonably good condition. After that is done, an inspection every 1,000 miles (or 60 days, whichever occurs first), is vitally necessary.

2. Reducing Parts Failures. Preventive Maintenance includes all the service work needed by a car or truck during its life. It emphasizes all the routine adjustments and inspections which prevent extensive repair and shows up what additional work is required. Doing the additional work at the time the inspection is made will save money because it will prevent further damage which may injure parts beyond repair.

3. Put Cars and Trucks in Good Condition Now. It is suggested that you get your car or truck in good operating condition as fast as you can before parts stocks become further depleted. You may not be able to have all of the work done at once. It may be necessary for you to spread the work over a period of time. When it is completed, you can apply Preventive Maintenance to your car or truck and it will save you a great deal of time and money.

4. Preventive Maintenance is not a new idea. Large fleet owners have practiced it for years. Their systems are not all alike as to details, but the purpose is the same—to provide a means of thorough inspection at regular intervals for the purpose of detecting mechanical trouble at the outset and correcting it before it has a chance to develop into a costly damage.

5. Regularity of Inspection. The preventive maintenance system is based on an inspection every 1,000 miles, or 60 days, whichever occurs first. In addition, at each 5,000- and 15,000-mile interval, a more complete inspection should be made. When the car or truck reaches 16,000 miles, the mechanic should begin all over again, using exactly the same inspections in the same order.

6. Send Car or Truck to a Reliable Service Station or Garage. If you have not been trained in this kind of work, seek out a reliable service station or garage and take your work there. They will follow the manufacturer's recommended inspection system carefully. The main thing is not to permit your car or truck to be neglected.

A PLEDGE
To Keep 'Em Rolling Longer

Realizing that motor cars and trucks are vital to our national transportation welfare, that the existing supply is all but irreplaceable, and that every extra mile traveled in safety is a direct help to the war effort . . . I hereby pledge that I will regard it as my patriotic duty to do all in my power to prolong the life of any car or truck in my ownership or care.

I will cooperate in a Preventive Maintenance Program.

I will do my part to see that frequent mechanical inspections are made and that all necessary adjustments and minor repairs are promptly taken care of to prevent major repairs, with consequent waste of parts and materials.

I will drive properly to avoid accidental damage, excessive tire wear, and gasoline waste.

(Signed).....

This Statement of ODT Recommendations is published in the interest of the Motorists of Marion and vicinity by local automotive dealers and oil distributors!

The Little White church in Edison was the scene of the military wedding of Miss Maxine Gillson to Ensign Loyal Chaney, Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gillson of Edison, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Chaney of Fremont.

Rev. L. Eugene Rush, pastor of Trinity Methodist church in Mt. Gilead, read the single ring ceremony in the presence of members of the immediate families.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Eilene Gillson, Lt. Robert Prior, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., a classmate of the groom at Ohio State university, served as best man.

Miss Helen Gillson of Atlanta, Ga., sister of the bride, lighted the two seven-branch candelabra. Baskets of white stocks set at each side of the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pale blue wool dress with Irish lace as the only trimming. Her only piece of jewelry was a gold bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom. Her corsage was an orchid tied with white satin ribbon.

The pale yellow suit worn by the maid of honor was fashioned on tailored lines. Her corsage was of blue iris tied with gold ribbon.

The bride's mother wore an aqua dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother was attired in navy blue with a corsage of pink sweet peas.

Wedding selections were played by Mr. Dwight Sabroske, a classmate of the groom at Ohio State university.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents immediately after the ceremony for the relatives of the family and close friends. Misses Nancy Harvey and Maxine Kelly, classmates of the bride at Edison High school, presided at the table in the dining room. A three-tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom and bouquets of white stocks decorated the table.

When Ensign Chaney and his bride left on a short wedding trip, the new Mrs. Chaney was wearing a navy blue wool costume suit trimmed in white, with a navy blue hat and flowing veil.

The bride attended Miami university, and was a member of Sigma Kappa sorority. The groom is a graduate of Ohio State university and is a member of Beta Alpha Psi, professional accounting fraternity.

Ensign and Mrs. Chaney will leave for Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 1, where he will assume active duty at the Naval Supply Depot. On June 14, they will go to Cambridge, Mass., where Ensign Chaney will attend the Naval Supply School at Harvard university.

After repairing a hydraulic line with tape, the men got the land- gear down and the ship was landed at Bengasi, about 200 miles from their base.

"We jumped out and kissed the ground," said Slade. "They they told us we shouldn't have come — the field wasn't big enough."

Another close call was related by Lt. Frank Rinehart of Wichita Falls, Texas, pilot of the "Eager Beaver," another Liberator which staged a score of raids on North Africa and Italy between Decem- ber and March and whose crew included top turret gunner Sgt. Charles E. Frost of Greenfield, O.

With 15 men aboard enroute from an Egyptian desert base to the Algerian base at night, Rine- hart said the ship got off course and ran into enemy flak over Gabes. As if that weren't enough, fog limited the ceiling to 35 feet at the Algerian base on arrival, he related.

"I talked with the control tower but couldn't make out a thing," Rinehart said. "I circled around upstairs until the gas tanks were almost empty. Just then we saw smoke from a train puffing be- low. The control tower said they could see it also. By compar- ing our sightings on the train we got a bearing on the field and got in."

CHENNAULT PROMISES NEW BLOWS AT JAPS

"We'll Get At Him Where It Will Hurt," He Says.

By The Associated Press

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AIR FORCE IN CHINA, March 26— (Delayed) — Brigadier General Claire L. Chennault told a dinner party of officers and enlisted men celebrating his appointment to the command of the new 14th United States Air force today that the new unit would play a major part in bringing the unconditional sur- render of Japan.

"We'll get at him where it will hurt," he said.

In his speech Gen. Chennault briefly reviewed the brilliant rec- ords of the American Volunteer Group and the China air task force which preceded the 14th in this area.

"Now, with the activation of the 14th Air Force in increased strength, we look forward to the future in anticipation of greater victories—decisive victories," he told his headquarters staff. "We shall destroy the enemy's air forces and other forces necessary to his prosecution of the war.

"We'll get at him where it will hurt. We're going to get at him where he can't defend himself. And the 14th Air Force will have a major part of those operations," he said.

FIGHT TO THE END PLEDGED BY EDEN

Maryland Legislature Hears British Foreign Minister.

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 27— Britain's solemn promise to fight on with the rest of the United Na- tions until both ends of the axis have been utterly smashed was emphasized by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last night.

In his only scheduled address during his current mission to the United States—delivered at a special joint session of the Mary- land general assembly—Eden made the unquivocal statement that Britain would fight to the end.

"Let there be no mistake," he stressed, "we shall not rest upon our arms until every one of our enemies has unconditionally sur- rendered.

"We, no less than you, and our partner China, have a score to settle with the Japanese; nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

The foreign secretary warned "we have yet far to travel before the final triumph over our enemies in the west and in the east" and predicted there would be "strains and stresses, setbacks and dis- appointments" before the final victory.

Though he referred but briefly to his talks with his U. S. officials, Eden declared there had been "a meeting of minds between us about the present and future that will, we are sure, bear fruit."

He warned the nation, however, not to expect "sudden and sensa- tional developments."

His speech, which was broad- cast nationally over CBS, con- tained a special word of encour- agement for China.

"Let China not misdoubt us," he said. "We shall not forget how for years she resisted aggression singlehanded. • • • the day will come when the Burma road once again will be open."

Declaring that "we cannot have prosperity in one country and misery in its neighbors, peace in one hemisphere and war in the other," the foreign secretary main- tained world security and progress could be found only through the "greatest possible measure of co- operation."

BITTER FIGHT GROWS OVER PAY-GO TAXES

Dispute in House Shares Spot- light with Rationing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 27—A bitter, congressional dispute on pay-as-you-go income tax pro- posals shared the spotlight with food shortage problems in the capital today as the government prepared to inaugurate its nation- wide meat rationing program.

The house scheduled its first Saturday session of the year to continue the tax debate, with most Republicans backing the Ruml skip-a-year plan and the Demo- cratic leadership opposing the abatement scheme.

Republican representatives de- manded proof of an accusation by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) that they had been promised "abundant campaign funds" if they won ap- proval of the skip-a-year plan proposed by Beardsley Ruml, New York banker.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), leader in the fight for adoption of the Ruml plan, said the Republicans would call on Dingell to "produce his evidence." House Minority Leader Martin (R-Mass) termed the Dingell charge "a desperate smear campaign waged by those who realize they're fighting a losing battle."

President Roosevelt, acting to relieve the farm manpower short- age, said yesterday that 3,500,000 farmers would be deferred from military service this year, and that thousands of farmers would be furloughed from the Army. Farm machinery output also is be- ing expanded, he said, and the ad- ministration is studying a pro- posal to recruit a farm land army of boys, girls and women to help produce food.

On the President's desk—facing a probable veto — was a farm price increase bill. The measure, approved in final form yesterday, would set aside an executive di- rective for deduction of govern- ment benefit payments from par- ity price standards in setting farm produce price ceilings.

General Predicts Allied Invasion of Europe

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 27—Major Gen. Levin Campbell, chief of Ordnance, today predicted inva- sion of the European continent as soon as the allies controlled the African situation and added that Germany would be out of the war within two years, followed short- ly by Japan.

General Campbell, here for an address tonight, indicated to a press conference that invasion might be attempted along the Mediterranean shores, described by Prime Minister Churchill of England as "the soft underbelly of Europe."

"I feel sorry for the Italians," he said, "they are in the wrong geographical spot for what's go- ing to happen. Fire power is go- ing to clean up the continent and pave the way for the foot soldier."

"The war will end in two years for Germany," he declared, "and not long after that for Japan."

During World War I, the length of torpedoes increased from 10 to 24 feet.

Russo-Jap Fishing Pact Shows World Still Is Practical

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Renewal of the Russo-Japanese fishing pact, whereby the Japs acquire sorely needed rights to take fish in certain Soviet waters, should serve as a pointed re- minder that sentiment isn't likely to overrule practical considera- tions in the making of war—or of peace.

That isn't peculiar to Russia and Japan. It's equally true of Shangrila and Utopia.

This business of the practical versus sentiment is worth bearing in mind as we look forward to post-war readjustments—the fiery question of boundaries, for in- stance. That's just so we won't be grievously disappointed if the new lines aren't wholly altruistic.

It's something to be remember- ed also by those who've been gambling that the Reds would join the allies in the war against Japan after Hitler has been disposed of. Maybe the Russians will do exact- ly that—but don't bet your shirt on it. The Muscovites are nothing if not practical.

This article isn't meant to be cynical. During my recent trip abroad I found all the allied coun- tries and their friends shooting for high ideals—which is as should be. We shall achieve a lot of them, too. But so-called practical (nasty word, that) considerations will keep us from some ambitions, and it's well that we recognize this and try to deal with the handicaps as we go along. Undoubtedly every allied nation will have some "practical" problems to meet.

The Russo-Jap fishing pact is a practical matter. It may seem anomalous that the Reds should fight the European axis with the right hand, and at the same time aid the Asiatic branch with the left. Still, there's nothing very strange about it. Obviously neither Russia nor Japan wants war with the other at this moment, for each already has all it can handle comfortably. And Nippon has to have those fish to keep hunger from its big population.

Actually, of course, Moscow and Tokyo signed a five-year neutral- ity and friendship pact two years ago. This provides among other things that each will remain neutral in case one of the signa- tories is the "object of military action on the part of one or sev- eral powers."

So far as the sanctity of this act is concerned, Moscow nat- urally knows full well that Japan's word hasn't the value of a punc- tured toy balloon. Any time it serves this purpose, the Japanese will follow in the footsteps of their ally, Herr Hitler, who at- tacked Russia after having signed the Russo-German non-agression pact of August 23, 1939, a week before the Nazis launched the second world conflict.

However, while the Reds aren't anxious to wage war in both Eu- rope and Asia at the same time, the Japs will be very daring if they try to do a Pearl Harbor on the Russians.

Planes Carry Burden of Attack on Japanese

By The Associated Press

Allied warplanes were officiall- ly credited today with blasting five Japanese strongholds in the arc of islands above Australia, while on the Burma front the RAF, flying from bases in India, carried out widespread attacks on enemy targets.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's head- quarters said United Nations air- men dropped 19 tons of bombs on the new Japanese base at We- wak, in northern New Guinea, and scored two direct hits with 500-pound bombs on a 4,000-ton Japanese cargo ship.

Other allied bombers pounded the enemy at Finschhafen, Sala- maua, Lae and Mubo, and swept 14 times over Japanese positions in the region where Gen. Mac- Arthur's forces are thrusting up the New Guinea coast.

In Burma, RAF bombers twice attacked the rail station at Mony- wa, 60 miles west of Mandalay, raided a Japanese-occupied town on the Mayu peninsula, and strafed the airdrome at Toungoo.

Gardening Guide—5

Tractor Plows Better, Faster

Associated Press Features

If you're a garden general this spring and mechanized forces are available to you, it's patriotic to have a tractor plow up your large-size Victory Garden.

Plowing usually does a better job of soil preparation than spad- ing; therefore you'll harvest a larger crop. Many cities have ar- ranged for tractor plowing of Victory Gardens.

You can do the job quicker and more efficiently with tractor and plow than with a spade.

Soil is turned to give seeds a chance to make an anchor in rich, porous ground. In plowing, the top soil is turned under. Thus the richest soil is underneath.

To reach it, the plants send down long, healthy roots. These will pick up more moisture in dry weather than short ones growing near the surface.

The soil may be spaded or plowed as soon as it is dry enough to work in early spring.

Test it by squeezing a handful tightly. If it sticks together, it's too wet. If it crumbles at the slightest pressure, it's in prime working condition. All clods should be completely crushed to eliminate air pockets.

After spading or plowing, the soil should be raked immediately.

MORGAN'S SONS SHARE BULK OF HIS ESTATE

Financier's Will Filed for Pro- bate in New York.

By The Associated Press

MINEOLA, N. Y., March 27— The two naval officer sons of John Pierpont Morgan will share the bulk of the late financier's fortune.

Under the terms of Morgan's will filed for probate here yes- terday, Commander Junius Spen- cer Morgan, USNR, and Lieut. Commander Henry Sturgis Mor- gan, USNR., will share equally in the residuary estate.

No estimate of the estate's size was made. Morgan, who died at the age of 75 on March 13 in Boca Grande, Fla., provided for his children, nephews and nieces and also for numerous employes.

The financier bequeathed $25,- 000 to each of his children, the two sons and his two daughters, Jane Norton Nichols and Frances Tracy Pennoyer. The will ex- plained the small bequests to the daughters by saying Morgan had made provisions for them before his death.

The sum of $25,000 also was left to his sons-in-law and daugh- ters-in-law. He gave $500 to each of his nieces and nephews.

No provision was made for his three sisters. The will explained that they had been adequately taken care of by their father.

He left $150,000 to the Church of St. John of Lattingtown, Locust Valley, N. Y., where he was a parishioner. He said he was leav- ing nothing to charity and other organizations because he had giv- en to them as best he could dur- ing his life.

Next Meat, Cheese Purchases To Be With Red Stamps

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 27—For most Americans, today marks the deadline for the purchase of meats and cheese—except with ration coupons.

And, beginning next week, red stamps from ration book No. 2, also will be required for the pur- chase of canned fish, butter and other fats and oils, sales of which are presently frozen.

Aimed to equalize distribution and—along with price ceilings— combat black markets, the gov- ernment's ambitious new rationing program for those products is scheduled to start Monday.

A relatively few neighborhood stores will continue sales tomor- row, but the great majority will stop regular transactions on ra- tioned goods at closing time to- night.

Some even planned to close to- day because of lack of meat sup- plies. John H. Ketal, executive secretary of the National Asso- ciation of Retail Meat Dealers, said in Chicago that at least 30 per cent of that city's more than 6,000 markets would be closed during the day.

In meat-starved New York City, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and the regional office of price adminis- tration jointly announced that an emergency shipment of 1,000,000 pounds of beef for home consum- ers was being rushed to the city. A substantial portion is expected to arrive by Monday, the mayor said.

Throughout the country, house- wives studied the new ration list which includes all beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton, as well as cheese, canned fish, butter, margerine and lard. When sales of these goods is resumed Mon- day, each person will be allowed to spend 16 points weekly. Most steaks, butter and cheese call for eight points a pound.

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, declaring he wanted to be sure the coupons would be hon- ored when the program starts, asked the cooperation of packers and retailers in speeding the flow of the rationed supplies to stores.

Marion Man Named On District Board

James Turoff of 308 South State street was elected to the board of directors at a meeting Thurs- day night in Columbus of the Central Ohio Restaurant associa- tion, OPA officials were present and discussed meat rationing as it will affect the restaurant indus- try. Mr. Turoff and his brother, Chris Turoff, operate Turoff's res- taurant on South Main street.

SKIP-A-YEAR TAX BILL AUTHOR SPEAKS

Declares Foes of Ruml Plan Resort to Demagoguery.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 27 — Rep. Carlson (R-Kas), author of a tax bill embracing the Ruml skip-a-year plan, told the house today that its opponents, "hav- ing no real facts upon which to base their opposition, are re- sorting to pure demagoguery."

"It is simply nonsense," he de- clared, "to say that the govern- ment would be wiping out $10,- 000,000,000 of assets if we put the tax clock ahead. The treasury's analogy is wholly false. Taxpay- ers owe the government what the government at any time chooses to say they owe it—no more and no less.

"Congress has the authority to increase or decrease taxes as they see fit and forgiveness is not in- volved."

Carlson's speech opened the third day of house debate on pay- as-you-go tax legislation. He did not go into a direct reply to a statement made by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) yesterday that Dingell is convinced Republicans had "promise of abundant campaign funds" if they succeeded in gain- ing congressional approval of the Ruml plan.

"The treasury," Carlson said, "will continually — without any break or pause—get more money if we switch to a pay-as-you-go plan than under existing law."

Eight Ohio Class A and B Basketball Teams Settle School Championship Today

Top High School Teams of State Occupy Spotlight in Annual Tourney at O. S. U. Gym and Columbus Auditorium.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., March 27 — Ohio's high schools hit the end of the state basketball championship trail today—a path down which 1,151 teams started weeks ago, but which only two can traverse to the title heights.

Still there scrapping, as survivor of the 242 class A quintets, are Newark, winners of the championship in 1936 and 1938 Martins Ferry, the 1941 king Canton McKinley, which has never won the laurels in 10 attempts, and Lima Central, making its fourth bid after three futile tries.

In class B are Tipp City, Waynesburg and Yorkville, all losing contenders in last year's finals, and unbeaten Middle Point of Van Wert county, making its first joust for the crown. That quartet is all that's left of 902 starters.

The class A games are booked today at Columbus auditorium, with a seating capacity of 4500 and playing room for nearly a thousand.

At 1 p. m. Lima Central tangles with Canton McKinley, and at 2 p. m. Newark and Martins Ferry fight it out. The winners play at 8 p. m. for the laurels.

In class B a new champion ascends to throne of the county [illegible] Waynesburg, ranking its fourth, Tipp City its third and Yorkville its second.

The major leagues are scheduled at Ohio State university's gymnasium with Waynesburg and Tipp City meeting at 1 p. m. and Middle Point and Yorkville an hour later. The finals are set for 8 p. m. (all times central war).

Martins Ferry, with 21 straight wins, and Middle Point with 26 are the only undefeated clubs left in the state. Neither is an odds-on favorite, however, for their winning streaks were constructed against squads in their own sectors, while today they'll be up against the best the other districts have to offer.

Won-lost records of the other contestants are: Class A—Lima Central 17-5, Canton McKinley 23-2, and Newark 24-2; class B—Waynesburg 25-2, Tipp City 17-3, and Yorkville 30-6. Don't let that Yorkville record fool you, for five of the defeats were at the hands of Class A combinations, while eight big league clubs were defeated by the class B squad from along the Ohio river.

Of the 90 youths on the rosters of the eight finalists, 37 are due for induction into the Army before school opens in September.

BOUDREAU ORDERS REST FOR INDIANS

Keltner Squad Beats Desautels' Lads 3-1 in 2nd Game.

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 27—Manager Lou Boudreau ordered his Cleveland Indians to rest today, satisfied the Tribesmen have reached the conditioning stage when a day off will do them as much good as another practice session.

After a fortnight of muscle stretching—mostly indoors—in Purdue university's field house, the Indians wound up the first lap of their wartime training routine with another intrasquad contest yesterday, the second this week.

The team captained by Ken Keltner defeated the Gene Desautels nine 3 to 1 with first-string talent spread evenly among the opponents.

The manpower shortage was plainly manifest again as Al Smith and Al Milnar, both hurlers, played the outfield for the Keltners with Pitcher Steve Gromek holding down the shortstop position for two innings after mound duty in the third. Jim Bagby played second for the losers and turned in a surprisingly efficient performance.

Two tribesmen, Allie Reynolds and Hank Edwards, will compete against other major leaguers training in Indiana in Purdue's annual relays today with their fellow teammates planning to attend in a body.

Gordon Bright Spot in Giant Camp

Mel Ott Picks Rookie To Carry Big Load at Bat This Year.

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Writer

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Up north here in the new training camp of the New York Giants among the pines of New Jersey, the baseball fans are sure of three things. The Giants are the dark horses of the National League; the players will be in a better condition than ever before to start a championship season; and Sid Gordon, a Brooklyn-born Giant, is the rookie of the year.

If you're looking for an argument, this is a good place to avoid. The first thing you hear when you arrive, and the last thing you hear before you leave, is "We've got the new world champions training here."

Manager Mel Ott won't go out on as big a limb as the natives, but Mel is "mighty pleased" with everything. "They're almost two weeks ahead of early workouts," says the Giants boss. "All the boys are surprised by the conditions here and I'm sure that when we start playing for keeps, we'll be ready for anything in the form of weather or opposing ball clubs."

There is a lot of life around the Giants' camp this year and one of the liveliest is Brooklynite Gordon. Sid is a certainty to be a National League regular. Right now it is a question of third base or the outfield, but the natives are sure it will be third base—and that Sid will be one of the best ever to grace the hot corner at the Polo Grounds.

Started In 1938

Sid has been pounding on the big time door now for a couple of years. Since he started playing professional baseball in 1938, he has had a better than .300 clouting average every year but one. His only baseball habit seems to be leading his league.

It was back in January, 1938, when the Giants first heard about Sid. George Back, then a local scout, persuaded Gordon to visit the Giants' offices. George had been determined to sign Sid ever since the day he banged out two homers and batted in seven runs with two wallops in the Eastern Shore league.

MANAGER MEL OTT

The Giants couldn't offer a contract to Sid but they sold him the idea of paying his own expenses for a tryout at Milford, Del. A week after Sid set foot on the Milford field, Giant scouts were breaking their necks to sign him.

Sid played every game that year—112 of them—and he was league batting king with .352. He led the circuit in total hits, total bases and triples while slamming out 25 homers. Promoted to Clinton for 1939, Gordon hit .327 and led the Three Eye loop in triples with 24.

Moving to Jersey City in 1940, he led his league for the third year, this time [illegible] for an even 500 and leading with 87 runs batted in. He was hauled up from Jersey City by Manager Ott for a September trial at third base.

Ott Is Optimistic

Ott hasn't decided where he'll play Sid this year, but whether it is third or the outfield, Mel is sure he will come up with a .300 or better average.

The Giants manager is not guessing about the probable lineup yet, but generally in the infield with Gordon will be Billy Jurges at short, Nick Witek at second. First base is uncertain since Johnny Mize yesterday was accepted for military service.

Roaming the outfield for Ott, if you believe the onlookers here, will be master Melvin himself, Jim Maynard and Babe Barna. Johnny Rucker, nephew of old Nap, Howard Moss and Vic Bradford, the ex-Alabama football star, are expected to stick around to make the others keep on their toes.

Despite the loss of Hal Schumacher, the pitching staff looms up as one of the strongest to start a National League season for the Giants. King Carl Hubbell is still around to pace the boys, and he will be ably assisted by Cliff Melton, Van Lingle Mungo, Bill Lohrman, Ray Coombs, nephew of Jack, the Athletics' ace of yesteryear, Hugh East, Harry Feldman, Ace Adams, Tom Sunkel, Bill Sayles and Salvatore Maglie, the International League edition of reliefer Adams.

Right now, old timers Gus Mancuso and Ray Berres are sharing the catching duties with Jersey City-an Hugh Poland, but Ott has his eyes on another receiver, and if all goes well he'll draw his paycheck from the Stoneham organization come May.

Reds Undergo Muscle Magic

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 27—A wiry 46-year-old muscle expert, who, as a skinny kid of seven used to climb the wall and sneak into games of the Cincinnati Reds, is currently drawing $100 a day from the same club to get its players in condition for the National league race.

The "muscle magician," Bill Miller, is no rubdown trainer or calisthenics instructor. Instead, he goes in for a program of group activity which achieves what he calls the three essentials of a perfect athlete: complete relaxation, perfect body balance, and complete flow or follow-through.

They're Supple

When Prof. Miller gets through with the Reds, they slink out of the Indiana university field house like a bunch of cats. They can tie a shoelace without bending a knee.

Best of all, from Miller's standpoint, the players don't ridicule his instruction. They kid about it, and razz each other about failures to shift in the approved manner. But they like it and feel it gets wonderful results.

Miller's job is to get the player completely loosened up each morning, and then the boys are ready for Manager Bill McKechnie and Coach Hans Lobert.

Possibly because of the muscle magician's technique (who can say for sure") Pitchers John Vander Meer and Ray Starr now are ready for nine innings apiece.

Has Improved

Third Baseman Bert Haas is "better now than at any time last year," McKechnie says. Shortstop Eddie Miller and Second Baseman Linus Frey are naturally relaxed athletes, but First Baseman Frank McCormick is improved this year, due either to Prof. Miller's teaching or the splendid training facilities afforded by Indiana university.

With his infield and pitching staff in top shape and Ray Mueller set to take over the catching job, McKechnie is concerned mainly with his outfield, with Gerald Walker absent over a pay argument, Mike McCormick, Max Marshall and Frank Kelleher are current choices.

Sees More Ammunition Available Next Fall

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 27 — Seth Gordon, executive director of the Pennsylvania game commission, declared yesterday negotiations were under way seeking to release sufficient materials to make available a reasonable supply of hunting ammunition for next fall.

Gordon, however, said that the nation's sportsmen would not want "a single shotgun shell or rifle cartridge produced for civilian use if it will delay the end of the war one day."

In an address prepared for delivery to the 21st annual convention of the Izaak Walton League of America, Gordon said "authorities tell us that there is no shortage of powder or shot. * * * those of us who have been close to this problem really believe the federal authorities will see the wisdom of permitting the production of civilian ammunition."

Wild game taken by the country's sportsmen last year, Gordon said, was more than one quarter billion pounds, including 60,000,000 pounds of venison, 9,000,000 pounds of elk meat, and 68,700,000 pounds of wild ducks and geese taken last fall—enough to provide 700,000 soldiers with one pound daily for one year.

RISKO LEAVES ARMY

By The Associated Press

CAMP DAVIS, N. C., March 27—Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy who became a contender for the heavyweight championship, is leaving the Army at 10 to take a war plant job in Lorain, O. Risko, who said he had hoped to settle an old score with Max Schmeling in Berlin, sought a discharge from the Army under the ruling applying to men over 38 because he believed his feet and legs were unable to stand the strain of marching.

NEW LIST OF CRITICAL JOBS FOR AREA ISSUED

War Manpower Committee Revises Occupation List.

The Marion Area War Manpower committee, serving Marion, Wyandot and Hardin counties, has issued a revised list of critical occupations for the area, replacing the original list made public when the committee was organized.

The occupations on the list are those for which there is a critical shortage in the three counties. The committee seeks to shift workers from less essential occupations into those on the critical list, and to prevent shift of workers in the critical classifications to less essential jobs.

The new list follows: coremakers, die setters, draftsmen (mechanical) electricians, farmers (poultry, livestock, dairy, truck), firemen (stationary), floor assemblers, foremen (mechanical), inspectors (mechanical work), laborers (foundry) layout men (mechanical work) molders, precision grinders, railroad brakemen, railroad firemen, railroad switchmen, skilled machine operators, stenographers tool and die makers, tool hardeners, truck drivers and warehousemen.

JOHNNY GRECO WINS EASILY OVER SHANS

But He Needs Polishing Before Lightweight Try.

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 27—Criticizing a winner, especially one who wins "a-galloping" is like complaining about a steak being too well done these days.

But the chief impression left today from Johnny Greco's second straight win over Cleo Shans was that his "brain trust" better not start hollering for the lightweight championship yet.

There's no doubt that Private Johnny's performance for the entertainment of 15,911 customers in Madison Square Garden was strictly "prime beef" last night. He demonstrated he's one of those rarities—a lightweight who can wallop—by flooring the tough little California Negro once and staggering him three more times.

He showed more convincingly than ever by his ability to take a punch and by his banging with both hands that as a lightweight prospect he's one of the fanciest to come down the pike in quite a piece.

But he showed more than anything else that as a polished peakbuster he's about a green as sour apples.

LITTLE GREGG RICE SETS NEW RECORD IN CLEVELAND RACE

Star Runner Again Sets New Time in Two-Mile Indoor.

By LARRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND, March 27—Little Greg Rice today broke his own world's indoor record in the two-mile at the Knights of Columbus games but eight nights to match strides in summer with Gunder Haegg, the great Swedish runner who holds the outdoor mark for the same distance.

In turning the Columbian two-mile in 8 minutes, 51 seconds, Rice clipped one-tenth of a second off the old mark he established at Chicago, March 22 1941. It was his 54th straight victory.

Dave Williams of Georgetown tried to make a race of it and was on Rice's heels for three-quarters. This was all Williams did, however, and he faded past. Glen Masten of Colgate moved into second and stayed there. At the wind-up Rice was two laps ahead of Williams and lapped Masten on the next to last turn of the track.

Herb Thompson of Jersey City set a new indoor world record of 4.8 seconds in the 45-yard dash. The previous mark of 4.9 seconds was posted by Percy Williams of Canada at Philadelphia Feb. 12, 1929.

Gil Dodds, the Ashland, O., divinity student had a breeze in the mile run. Dodds' time was 4 minutes, 8.7 seconds.

Bob Wright of Ohio State and Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace staged heated duels in both the 45-yard high and low hurdles.

Wright holds the world's indoor mark of 5.1 seconds in the low hurdles but, paradoxically, lost this even to Dillard, who was only one-tenth of a second behind the Ohio Stater's mark. Wright evened the score with the B-W ace in the high hurdles and was clocked at 5.8 seconds.

Bob Ufer of Michigan won the 600-yard run in 1.12.5. Russ Owen of Ohio State was second.

Joe Nowicki of Fordham, the intercollegiate champ, bested Les Eisenhart, former Ohio State captain, in the 1,000-yard run. His time was 2:14.9.

The pole vault was won by Richard Morcom of New Hampshire, who cleared 14 feet even. Jack Defield of Minnesota and John Schmidt of Ohio State each did 13 feet, 6 inches, but Defield was awarded second place for fewer misses.

19-Year Old Polish-American Breaks 20-Year Swimming Record

Northwestern Freshman Posts Time of 22.1 in 50-Yard Free Style at O. S. U.; To Enter Army Soon.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 27—A 19-year-old Polish-American, who was 12 years old before he learned to speak English and who expects to enter the U. S. army soon, [illegible] world skirt today with the posting of 22.1 seconds for the 50-yard free-style clipping .5 seconds from a world record that had stood 20 years.

Henry Kozlowski, Northwestern university freshman, made the new mark in winning the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship in the Ohio State natatorium. Meet officials described his accomplishment as one of the greatest in competitive swimming history.

Kozlowski earlier had equalled the 22.6-second record twice in qualifying trials. The mark was set in 1923 by Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii and matched in 1934 by Peter Fick.

Holder of the national scholastic record of 52.4 seconds in the 100-yard free-style, the Chicago youth will seek the N. C. A. A. crown in that event today. Opposing him will be Ohio State's Jack Smith, Hawaiian holder of the world free-style record over 100-yards and a mile and [illegible] last night of the 220-yard N. C. A. A. free-style title.

The meet entered its second and [illegible] day, Ohio State [illegible] tremendously safe lead of 49 points to 23 for second place Michigan, only five events to go. Ohio [illegible] points, with seven points [illegible] third.

Keo Nakama, five-foot [illegible] inch Hawaiian sophomore [illegible] Ohio State, captured the [illegible] A. A. 1,500-meter free style swimming championship yesterday. Nakama's time was 19:18.6.

Jack Ryan and Don Cooke, Nakama's teammates, placed second and fifth, respectively, to [illegible] the Bucks 11 points in the [illegible] event. M. D. Green, Texas A. & M., was third, W. Stewart, Michigan fourth.

Ohio State qualified three of the seven finalists in the [illegible] board diving, defending champion Frank Dempsey pacing the Bucks. Other qualifiers were Charles Batterman and [illegible] Strong, Ohio State; A. J. Cohan, Princeton, Howard Jaynes, Northwestern; A. Canja and [illegible] Evans, Michigan.

Cincy To Play First Intra-Squad Game Today

Contest Expected To Be Test of Northern Training.

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 27—First actual test of northern training effects will be felt today when the Cincinnati Reds engage in their first intra-squad game of the season. Observers believe that the "regulars" lineup today will vary with McKechnie's opening game choices, April 21.

With Heinie Mueller behind the plate, the infield will stack up with Frank McCormick, Lonnie Frey and Bert Haas on the bases and Eddie Miller at shortstop. Max Marshall, Mike McCormick and Frank Kelleher are expected to patrol the outer gardens.

Much attention will be centered on "Woody" Williams, 29-year-old rookie infielder up from Syracuse, whose line drives to all fields has caused much speculation that he will earn the berth of regular utility infielder of the season.

Comedy-Romance Featured

"I Married A Witch," the Rene Clair comedy-romance, comes to the Palace screen Thursday through Saturday. Frederic March and Veronica Lake are the stars.

Veronica, first seen as a smoky spirit traveling through space with her sorcerer-father, Cecil Kellaway, gets a body in order to perform some nasty witchcraft aimed against the hero Frederic March, and intended to keep him from becoming governor of the state — and from marrying his sweetheart, Susan Hayward. The witch gets her man, but not before she drinks a love potion intended for him, which makes her fall terribly in love with the man she wanted to destroy.

Hitler Satirized

Appearing at the same time as "I Married a Witch," is "The Devil With Hitler" featuring Alan Mowbray, Bobby Watson, George E. Stone, Joe Devlin, Marjorie Woodworth, Douglas Fowley and Herman Bing.

The story starts in Hades where the Devil is put on the spot by his associates who claim that Herr Hitler is outdoing him in the realm of evil. The devil pleads for an opportunity to go up to earth and to prove that there is a chink in Hitler's armor. From then on the story unreels a laugh-filled satire on the Dictators and their exploits.

Ohio Shows "Air Force"

Flying Fortress Has Central Role in Wartime Thriller.

"Air Force," now showing through Thursday at the Ohio theater, features John Garfield, Gig Young, Harry Carey, George Tobias, Arthur Kennedy, James Brown and John Ridgely, but the starring role is played by "Mary Ann," a B-17 Boeing Flying Fortress. It tells of her adventures from the moment the Fortress takes off on a peaceful mission from Mather Field just prior to Dec. 7, 1941, until it arrives on Australian territory.

When the crew discovers that Henderson Field, their destination, is suddenly off the air, they are forced to make an emergency landing only to take off when they are attacked by the Japanese. They arrive at Wake Island to learn they must take off at once for Manila. Out of Manila they encounter great peril in a huge bank of storm clouds. Short of fuel, they make a skillful landing at a jungle base but are given orders to take off for Australia. Meantime, bombs are loaded on the B-17. Only three are loaded when sirens warn them of enemy attack. They take off and account for one Jap cruiser and two transports with their bombs, but the plane is damaged. It is later patched up and takes part in the Coral sea battle and finally lands on an Australian beach.

Lois Andrews is starred in the title role of "Dixie Dugan," appearing Friday through Monday. Taken from the comic strip originated by J. P. McEvoy the story concerns the Dugan family in wartime Washington. Pa, played by Charlie Ruggles, is an air raid warden, and Ma, Charlotte Greenwood, helps out. Eddie Foy Jr., is cast as Dixie's old reliable boy friend but Dixie has her eye on a handsome Washington biggie played by James Ellison. Ann Todd is seen as Dixie's younger sister.

ABOVE IS JOHN GARFIELD as he is seen in "Air Force," now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Army Reports 2,000 Bags of Mail Lost

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 27—The Army reported yesterday that 2,000 sacks of mail destined for American soldiers overseas were lost in recent weeks in the sinking of United Nations ships by enemy action.

It was impossible to supply any identification of the mail lost, the Army said, but most of it was first-class letter mail which originated in various parts of the country, chiefly during February, and was addressed to points in Great Britain, Iceland, North Africa, Egypt and India.

County Agent Guest at Grange Meeting

County Farm Agent Arthur Smith was a guest when the Martel Grange met Thursday night. He led a discussion on the farm labor problem.

The Grange voted to donate $10 to the Marion County Red Cross war fund drive instead of sending a delegate to the short course meeting in Columbus this week. A calf was purchased and turned over to the Marion County War Bond committee for use in the Victory Bond drive auction sale at Marion.

Two applications for membership were received. A playlet, "And the Lights Went Out," was given under the direction of Miss Marcella Allen. Members of the cast were Jimmy and Dan Downs, Richard and Lowell Price and Raymond Pangborn. Mrs. Jay Hedding served as reader.

At the next meeting, scheduled for April 13, County Agent Smith and Mrs. Christine Cook, home demonstration agent, will present a program illustrating repair of small tools in the home. The meeting will start at 7:30, slow time.

KILLER OF THE AMAZON!

Gildersleeve in Film Role

Popular Radio Character in Feature Movie at Marion.

Small-town politics comprise the key theme of "The Great Gildersleeve" which brings Harold Peary to the screen in his first starring role following his success in portraying the same character on the air waves. It comes to the Marion Theater Sunday and Monday along with the jungle picture "Jacare."

"Jacare," starring James Donnaldson and Miguel Rejinsky, is the story of two hunters who set out for the Amazon to search for the black-skinned, red-eyed man-killer known as Jacare. The two stalk into real thrill-packed action, and finally they get their prize booty—the Jacare.

Mystery and murder form the keynote for Tuesday and Wednesday, as "Just Off Broadway" and "Half Way to Shanghai" move across the screen at the Marion Theater.

Two mystery-shrouded murders and several attractive young ladies, Marjory Weaver among them, keep Lloyd Nolan leading a double life in "Just Off Broadway." Also crammed with action is "Half Way to Shanghai," featuring Irene Hervey and Kent Taylor. It is located aboard a railroad train running from Lashio, Burma Road terminus, to Rangoon.

"The Fighting Devil Dogs," starring Lee Powell, Herman Brix, and Eleanor Stewart comes to the Marion Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It is the story of two U. S. Marines assigned to the task of tracking down and bringing to justice a band of international enemies.

At the same time, "Blocked Trail," starring Bob Steel, Tom Tyler, and Jimmie Dodd as the Three Mesquiteers, opens at the Marion. The story revolves around the murder of an eccentric old recluse who has lived in a remote canyon for many years with Brilliant, a dwarfed horse, as his only companion. The Mesquiteers falsely accused of the crime, prove their innocence and track down the real killer.

We are glad to join the hundreds of satisfied customers who say it pays to see F. E. Williams, Auctioneer, for your public sale. We sold out the furniture at the Williams Auction House, Thursday evening, March 25, and we are more than satisfied with the results and we wish to thank the large attendance for helping make this sale very successful.

Another Successful Sale
I take great pleasure to extend many thanks and best wishes to the good bidders who attended my sale, 540 Blaine Ave., Friday, March 26. It really pays to see Col. F. E. Williams on your public sale. He sold my living room suite for $75.00, heaters $100.00, gas range $127.00. His system of selling, clerking and financing a public sale really means dollars to the owner.

PROFIT CASHING CHECKS STOCKS

5-Session Advance Is Halted After Prices Hit Three-Year Peak.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 27—Profit cashing in the stock market today stemmed the recession sprint to peak levels in nearly three years on the largest volumes in more than 13 months.

While favorites continued to attract idle speculative and investment funds, ice sharp advance caused some potential buyers to withdraw and inspired the cutting of commitments by others on the idea a technical correction might be in the offing. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 800,000 shares.

In the "new high" class were U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, Paramount, Loew's and American Sugar. Laggards included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, American Telephone, Goodyear, Texas Co., Anaconda and Western Union.

Trading in Wool Reported Active

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, March 27—The Commercial Bulletin said of the Boston wool market today:

"Active trading interest in wool, both here and elsewhere was given an extra stimulus by the tentatively announced figures on the prospective government procurement program in wool goods. Everywhere that could be offered in spot scoured, pulled or greasy wools, as well as new contracts in the west and supplies enroute from foreign markets, is said to have found a ready buyer.

"Mills have a clearer picture of demands to be filled on behalf of the government and the wool trade a criterion of demand for raw material from that side of production.

"Contracting operations in the new domestic wool clip have spread over a wide area in the far west."

The paper published the following unchanged Ohio quotations:

Domestic fleeces—Delaine unwashed 48-50; ¼ blood combing 50-51; ⅜ blood combing 52-54; ½ blood combing 53-54.

LEWIS' STRIKE STAND STILL NOT CLARIFIED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 27—John L. Lewis left the senate war investigating committee guessing today as to whether his United Mine Workers would resort to a strike to enforce their demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

Senator Ball, 37-year-old Minnesota Republican who tangled verbally with Lewis during yesterday's lengthy and often heated hearing, said he thought the UMW leader "showed he is determined to drive ahead and get any advantage out of the war crisis that he can."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) said he was "greatly upset and disturbed" by Lewis' declaration that he considered the general anti-strike agreement of December, 1941, "not necessarily binding."

Lewis himself had told the committee "I think it very unfair to suggest that I would take advantage of my government in a crisis."

He added he had not said anything about striking, and he hoped, like all Americans, that "no work stoppage would be necessary." But he reiterated that the UMW "would not be guilty of trespassing on a mine corporation's property" in the absence of a negotiated contract.

Camels Found Hazard to War Communications

By The Associated Press

AT THE TUNISIAN FRONT March 27—The difficulties of this war are not all concerned with front line fighting.

Consider the crisis at (blank) headquarters, for instance.

At the headquarters signal office, an impotant communication line suddenly went dead, and dismay at the unaccountable trouble was considerable until a sergeant discovered the difficulty.

A drove of camels, loaded with heavy packs for a trek across country, had been driven into a shady patch beside the headquarters. With disdainful indiscrimination they began to munch at grass and telephone lines on the ground with equal relish.

The sergeant spoke fast and the Arab camel driver drove the beasts away.

Tax Question, Troop Transport on Networks

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 27 — As the tax question, particularly affecting incomes, continues to be a point of prime congressional consideration, debates on the radio are becoming more numerous. A special one is being set up for MBS at 3:30 p. m. Sunday under the subject "The Ruml Plan."

Without revealing where the various pickups are to be made and with all possible secrecy, the Army hour of NBC on Sunday afternoon will devote its entire hour to the story of troop transportation up to actual embarkation. Participants will be soldiers enroute to the fighting fron

Machines and Doctors

ONE OF the questions sent to me this week was: "Are all forms of heart disease found out by having a heart tracing on an electrocardiograph?" This shows an unfortunate misconception which is very prevalent at the present time, one which can be called The Doctrine of the Machine.

A machine never makes any mistakes. It does not tire. It grinds out its results regularly and endlessly. In the case of the diagnostic machine you are supposed to be able to put the patient at one end and by and by get a slip telling you exactly what is the matter with him at the other.

All this is a complete misconception. It is as if my correspondent had said: "Are all battles won with ten-inch guns?" No, it takes generals and colonels and captains and corporals and enlisted men to work the guns that win the battle.

Nothing in diagnosis takes the place of a trained medical brain, trained medical eyes, ears and fingers. This is unfortunately one of the reasons why we are suffering a shortage of medical care during the present emergency. If we could turn every invalid over to a machine we would not have to worry.

Even in the case of the electrocardiograph which is definite enough within its limits, there is required a trained human brain to interpret the tracings. The taking of a history of the patient's illness, examination of the chest for abnormal pulsations, the stethoscope, were all used before the electrocardiograph and each of them is more valuable than the electrocardiograph alone. This is not intended to be a criticism of electrocardiography, which is very useful in diagnosis, but simply to point out that a sympathetic human individual to whom you bring your diagnostic problems is the one whose mind must determine what is the wisest thing to say to you.

In the case of periodic health examinations of those over 50, it would be desirable to put our wisest and most experienced doctors on this work. Perhaps some arrangement of this sort can be made in every community. Men and women 50 years of age comprise the most valuable group in society, according to Dr. Roger I. Lee, of Boston. They perhaps should have an annual physical examination, but only if the examination is conducted wisely. The discovery of minor deviations from accepted standards of weight, blood pressure, heart function, etc., is likely to frighten the amateur, but in every instance such a deviation must be evaluated.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, March 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a generally adverse and ominous one, with many indications of treachery and sordid elements affecting the various activities. It might be advisable to seek consolation and fortification against such malefic assault by resorting to regulation Sabbath avocations.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by all sorts of treacheries, both in business and private affairs. Keep alert to all pitfalls and subtle intrigues, resolving to remain steadfast and upright in all transactions. The mind may be confused and unreliable and the emotions sordid.

A child born on this day should be given rigid training and supervision against all manner of secret, subtle and tricky states of mind and emotions. It may be subject to all kinds of treacheries and subterfuges.

For Monday, March 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast promises many unusual opportunities for attaining cherished desires by employing original creative thinking in situations which seem to be clouded by pitfalls and dangers of challenging nature. New ways and means or reconstruction of old plans and processes may prove resourceful. There may be sinister threats to undermine such effort by gossip, slander or distortion of worthy purposes. Accept responsibilities, preserve integrity and prudence with fairness and candor.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to splendid opportunities for progress and advancement if they will give considerable creative thought to formulating new plans and innovation, but backed up by sound methods.

A child born this day may be versatile and progressive.

[illegible] Cal. [illegible] overlooked [illegible] Lee Crawford that the family car was afire and burning up. She was so excited that she was unable to explain where the car was except "around the corner." Just then her father, Frank Gilbert, walked in and reported the same fact. The police started to find out themselves and discovered that it really was "just around the corner" from the police station. They promptly put the fire out.
